

Primary Insights

The Sales department has the highest attrition rate by a considerable margin. The Sales Representative role is the most difficult position to maintain, with an attrition rate 24% higher than the company average.

The two most significant factors in employees leaving appear to be income and marital status;

The average monthly income for the highest-attrition job roles was nearly $8,000 lower than the average for the lowest-attrition job roles.

Over a quarter of all single employees left the company last year, over 10% higher than married or divorced employees.

Job satisfaction and age of employee did not have any strong correlation with attrition;

Left-	Score: 2.5	Age: 33.6
Stayed-	Score: 2.8	Age: 37.6